Three Omaha University sophomores took top honors in the Tomahawk Beauty Contest Wednesday afternoon.

Nineteen-year-old Barbara Shrader of Zeta Tau Alpha was selected 1962 Tomahawk Beauty Queen from a field of nineteen contestants. She is an English major and a member of choir and Indianes.

Earlene Timm of Chi Omega and Sandra Staub of Alpha Xi Delta were first and second place runners-up respectively. Midge Butters and Joanne Volenc, both of Zeta Tau Alpha, were in the top five finalists.

The annual contest is sponsored by the University yearbook, the Tomahawk.

Miss Shrader was presented with a bouquet of red roses by President Milo, Bail. Karen Pope, editor of the Tomahawk and chairman of the contest, presented the Queen with a silver bracelet.

The contestants were selected on poise, personality, beauty of face and figure, and carriage. They were judged through interviews and stage appearance in street clothes and evening gowns.

Judges for the event were Constance Cowdery, reigning Queen of Ak-Sar-Ben; Paul McGrath, assistant to the president of the Leo A. Daly Company; and Edwin Schafer, director of press, radio and television relations at Union Pacific.

Pat Shields served as master of ceremonies. Escorts were Lynne McCallum, Jerry Gilmore, Mike Landers and Bruce Bressler.

Paul V. Peterson, head of the Journalism Department; Elizabeth Hill, Dean of Women; Dr. Edwin Clark of the speech department, and Jane Andersen of the art department served on the faculty committee for the contest.

Kathy Wehry, first runner-up in last year's contest, assisted Miss Pope on the Student Committee.

Other contestants were Sigrid Schakat, Nancy Norton, Olivia Guerra, Shirley Donaly, Marcia Cathcart, Nancy Katz and Cynthia Evahn.

Also in the contest were LeAnn Borchman, Judy Sullivan, Claudel Williams, Felicia McGargill, Dotti Mott, Kathy Planteen and Milda Marcus.

Crackdown on Traffic Violators 'Non-Existant' Says Pflasterer

"The information to us is—the revolution, she is here."

With that statement an Omaha University professor indicated to one of his classes this week that a crackdown is being launched against students who have acquired a fistful of traffic tickets.

"The Dean has been insisting that we make a few examples . . . even to the point of dismissing some students from the University."

"We have been ordered to cut down on leniency (of allowing students with several traffic tickets to remain in class)," he said.

"But we weren't told to mention it in class," he added.

However, a check with Donald Pflasterer, dean of student personnel, revealed the University is not snapping a new "get tough" policy at student traffic violators who fail to pay their fines in the required time.

"We are not trying to make examples of anyone," Pflasterer said. "We are just enforcing the rules. There has been no change of policy."

He indicated that some faculty members have shown a dislike for having to issue class denials. "Maybe they are getting a guilty feeling," he said.

After a student gets two or three tickets, he said, "we issue class denials. But we have reason to believe some get into class anyway."

"Those who have a number of class denials won't be permitted to take final examinations. But that's the same as it's been in the past."

Pflasterer emphasized it is the individual instructor's responsibility to hand out class denials. "We are not mercenaries," he said. "What we want is cooperation."

He said approximately 40 students are on class denials now and some of those have received letters notifying them of their status.

Musicians to Give 'Nights' Concert

Phillipe Entremont, noted pianist, and Celloist Maurice Gendron will display the talents which have won them praise on four continents when they perform at the final program of the fall "University Nights" series in the Administration Building Auditorium tonight at 8:00.

Official Notices

Any students interested in editing the University of Omaha Gateway second semester of 1961-62 must submit a written application by noon today, stating their qualifications for the position, to Paul V. Peterson, head of the Journalism Department, Room 130 in the Applied Arts Building.

All applicants to medical school must arrange for their personal interview by contacting Dr. D. M. Marquardt, 435 Adm., or Mrs. A. Moellenbeck at the University of Nebraska by Dec. 20.

Pre-Registration Ends at 4 Today

Today is the last day for students to pre-register for second semester. Anyone who has not registered by 4 p.m. will have to wait until Feb. 2, 1962.

Sixteen hundred students had registered for second semester by 4 p.m. Wednesday.

"Students have been cooperating so well that there have been few problems, even from students who have been told that a class is closed," said Alice Smith, registrar.

Students who have pre-registered must pay the tuition and fees by 3 p.m. Jan. 29, 1962, or their class cards will be returned to the file.

If a student, having pre-registered, is unable to return, he may apply for a return of the $10 fee as late as Jan. 15, 1962. After this date, however, the fee will be forfeited.

The receipt for pre-registration fee is to be presented when the tuition is paid. Tuition refunds will be available after March 15, 1962.

By 4 p.m. Wednesday, the following classes had been closed:

In General Survey courses; Humanities, 102—Discussions B, C and H; Physical Science, 101—Lab D, and General Biology, 102.

In the Biology department; General Zoology, 114—Labs D, E; in the Chemistry department; General Chemistry, 112—call number 177—Labs B, E.

Others are in the English department; English 112—call numbers 312, 313, 314, 316, 317; Short Story, 225—call numbers 331, 334.

In Physical Education courses; For men, 112—call numbers 488, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495; For men and women, 304; For women, five 112 classes.

31 Honored At Luncheon

A luncheon honoring the 31 students who are recipients of Ak-Sar-Ben scholarships was held yesterday in the Student Center Ballroom at noon.

The Ak-Sar-Ben King and Queen, governors and councillors, the University Board of Regents and Administration attended.

This is the second year the program has been in effect, offering 16 new scholarships each year at $150 each. The scholarships are renewable each year as long as the student continues to make successful progress toward his degree.

The awards are based on ability to do college work, need for financial assistance, character and recommendations. The final selection of recipients is made by the University Scholarship Committee.

Currently receiving scholarships through this program are Judy Bacon, William Paines, Patricia Bartlett, William C. Becker, Bernard Bigley, Deanne Brezacek, Kathryn Chapek, David Cowsky, Joyce Denne, Rudy Duda, Olivia Guerra, and Heather Hamilton.

Others are Larry Hammer, Donald Harm, Richard Inserra, Perry C. Johnson, Stanley Keast, James Kisicki, Thomas Lang, Gloria Longnecker, Kathleen Nanfio, James Pelowski, Lola Roberts, and Dennis Savage.

Gary Sander, Sharron Scudder, Kathleen Vail, Larry Villnow, Elizabeth Vinski, Dennis Witcowski, and Sharon Zagor are also scholarship recipients.

Three Enter Carol Contest

Three original Christmas Carols have been entered in the Christmas Carol Contest sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia of America, professional men's music fraternity. The contest will be held Dec. 13 at 3:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom.

Entrants are by Jim Heard, "The Infant Child," Bruce Beutow, "What Can I Give Him?," and Don Farrar, "The Birth of Christ."

The carols are judged on originality, style of carol writing, and lyric content.

Dr. C. Robert Kepple, chemistry, will be one of the judges.

Each carol will be sung by a group of the composer's own choosing. He will direct them "in order to insure the best possible interpretation."

The winning carol will be sung by the Omaha University Choir at the Christmas Convocation Dec. 20. A plaque will be presented to the composer at this time.

Most OU Students Agree Tuition Increase Necessary

The University's proposed tuition increase of $1.50 per hour would cost a freshman nearly 200 dollars more in a four-year college career. The increase would bring the school some 400,000 dollars a year more, most of which would go to narrow the gap between OU instructors' salaries and pay at other schools.

The Gateway asked some students what they thought about the increases:

Said a Bootstrapper: "I think the parking meters should be able to support the whole school."

Another agreed and added, "It doesn't matter to me, I'm graduating, but it's going to hit the other troops in the wallet."

A third added over his coffee, "More money always hurts."

Many students favored—or at least didn't disagree with—the increase. A co-ed and friend agreed that the increase would be acceptable providing that better education and facilities result. "We have to have something for our money," they said.

One sorority girl said, "My parents pay the bills. It won't hurt me. But I suppose their taxes will go up."

Several students merely said that they thought the increase was necessary and that they'd have to go along with it. One added that he thought his education was worth that much more.

One complained, "I can hardly afford it now," while another was more optimistic, and added, "I guess I'll just have to find another part time job."

One senior asked if it's necessary to raise tuition to pay for a bowling alley that college students don't need.

A bootstrapper who has attended three other schools said that OU tuition is almost as high as some state-supported universities. Another at the same Ouampi room table said he found that OU costs are lower.

A bootstrapper shrugged his shoulders. "Everything else is going up, I guess tuition has to, too."

This sampling does not try or claim to be representative of the total school population, but only indicates that student feelings about the proposed tuition increase range from all for it to definitely opposed.

Next week the Gateway will talk with those for whom the increases are intended: the instructors.

Letter to the Editor

Dear GATEWAY Editor:

Is the University going to keep pace with the ever expanding and growing Omaha? Or is it going to become Stagnant?

Instead of building parking lots, or thinking about installing bowling alleys — the University should be building NEW COLLEGES!

If the University is going to keep pace—it's going to have to think about having a dental, law, and medical college. There are many students who simply cannot afford the expense of going to a dental, law, or medical college after graduating from the University.

Speech Contest Starts Next Week

The first annual Intramural Speech Contest will start next week with 34 participants.

According to Dr. Aldrich Paul, head of the speech department, the contestants will deliver humorous after dinner speeches. A notice citing the time and place for each speech will be posted in Room 315 B of the Administration building. Anyone interested is welcome to attend.

Six of the participants will go into the finals of the contest. Two trophies and four medals will be awarded the winners.

Eighteen faculty members will act as judges in the contest.

Creighton University's answer to the lost "car 54" wasn't lost last Friday. It was spotted by many on the OU campus as it made its rounds on sidewalks and lawns.

By Ken Zimmerman

Creeping like socialism, a "new order" of students has risen to prominence on our campus.

They're called Bootstrappers.

These military-men-turned-professional-students have progressed from a silent minority, awkwardly mingling with comparative youngsters, to a solidified band of outspoken, pencil-patriots.

Their presence has been made known.

From the program's inception, Bootstrappers have been greeted enthusiastically in Omaha.

At out-of-town tuition rates, their checks are certainly appreciated by the University Administration.

As transient service personnel, most of them ranking and drawing considerable longevity, their dollars are gleefully counted by the local merchants and landlords.

And don't forget the guy who sells briefcases and attache cases.

But what of the "regular" students at OU?

Here the response has been anything but glowing. As a matter of fact, it's becoming downright bitter.

The newness has worn off and students are eyeing these keenly competitive individuals with increasing animosity.

Why?

"It's unfair," complained a geography student. "We're graded on a curve against these guys."

Now, in most cases, there's nothing wrong with a grade curve.

But to an 18-year-old, who once travelled to Yellowstone with his folks, it's disconcerting to have a "fellow-student" take issue with the instructor because "when I was in the Philippines for three years..."

Or how about the freshman accounting student, puzzled over simple bookkeeping, when he learns that his grade is being entered on a curve against a fellow who, for 10 years, was payroll officer for the Eighth Division?

These situations do not become so apparent—or so complaint-provoking—when one or two Bootstrappers quietly take their seats amidst a roomful of "regular students."

But natural evolution has produced something far different.

In case you haven't already experienced such a thing, sit in, sometime, with a group of students selecting classes for the coming semester.

"Stay away from that course," says one. "It's a Bootstrapper class."

What the warning implies is that 75 or 80 per cent of the enrollment will be comprised of "professional students."

No longer are the Bootstrappers assimilated into the entire student body, taking their places, as a few would have you believe, as just another "Joe College" on the University scene.

Instead, a small number of classes, for one reason or another, have become especially attractive to the military.

With all this in mind, it is perhaps time to take another look at this indirect Federal aid to education. It is perhaps time to examine to what extent the declared intention is being fulfilled.

I've been led to believe that the Bootstrapper program was designed to raise the educational level of our military leaders.

Noting the predominance of near-retirement age participants and the majority of "general education" degrees, I can't help but conclude that, rather than "education for the betterment of Uncle Sam's fighting men," we are doing no more than insuring a more lucrative post-retirement career for those military personnel who desire a degree along with their honorable discharge.

CU Showing Here 'Poor'

By Bill Grow

Creighton University students led their minute Homecoming motorcade across the Omaha University campus last Friday, possibly in retaliation to the OU Homecoming trek to their campus several weeks earlier.

"Across the campus" is the best way to describe their uninspired maneuver because one of their car's tire marks may still be found in OU sod.

The driver of the small, imported auto steered it over the curb of the parking lot west of the Applied Arts building and onto the grass.

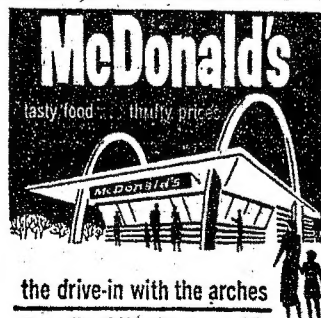

He then wheeled onto the sidewalk leading from the new parking area and continued down past the AA building, up the main walk and parked in a restricted area near the Student Center loading dock.

The whole trip was made amidst a sprinkling of soda and beer bottles which evidently were emptied by the auto's occupants. Omaha U has been taught from past experience to expect better things of Creighton.

If what slouched across our campus and into the Student Center was all Homecoming parade participants and not just a smattering of the less disciplined and unimaginative students, then the Creighton parade planners are slipping.

No damage was done to the lawn that nature won't take care of and the bottles thrown from the car were removed in very short order.

But the whole incident left a bad taste in the mouths of many on-lookers. No doubt, next year's parade will be better.

Olympics Theme Is Helen of Troy

There are opening from tri-cycle riders to pyramid builders at the 1961 All-Greek Ox Olympics. This year's event will be held in the Fieldhouse December 16 at 7:30 p.m.

The Olympics will be highlighted by the election of Helen of Troy. She will be chosen on the basis of the number of points her sorority gains during the evening, the points her champion fraternity makes in the pyramid contests and on the authenticity of her costume.

Coeds vying for the title are: Sherry Zager, Alpha Xi Delta; Carol Thomson, Chi Omega; Liama Runcis, Sigma Kappa; and Gail Grove, Zeta Tau Alpha.

Jolly Joe Martin of KMEC and Betty Spurgeon of the Spurgeon Modeling School will be on hand. Dr. Ralph Wardle of the Omaha University English department judge the Helen of Troy costumes.

Foreign Flavor Dominates Menu

Foods from many foreign lands will be on the menu of the Home Economics Club annual Continental Buffet Supper. The dinner, prepared by the club members, will be served at 5:30 p.m. in the Home Economics dining room on Tuesday, Dec. 12.

Dr. and Mrs. Milo Bail, Dean and Mrs. Carl Helmstadter, Dean Elizabeth Hill, Mrs. Christie Hedlund, Mrs. Goodrich, Miss Margaret Killiam and Miss Carolyn Kundel are the guests invited to attend the banquet.

The menu will include: Fruit Soup from Scandinavia, Tamale Pie from Mexico, Tjium Poikar from Sweden, Almond Crescents from Austria, Goulash and Spatzels from Hungary and Kebabs from the Near East.

Barbara Vaughn is in charge of the decorations and Sandra Deckert is food chairman.

Timm Given Title Of Little Colonel

"Little Colonel" was the honorary title awarded Omaha University Angel 2nd Lt. Erlene Timm at an Arnold Air Society-Angel's Flight Conclave Dec. 1 and 2.

She was presented with a bouquet of red roses at the Area "F" meeting held at South Dakota State College in Brookings.

Miss Timm won on the basis of activities, beauty, personality and poise after a vote by AAS members.

OU was represented at the conclave by Miss Timm, Angel Flight Leader Pat VanVoorhis, AAS cadets Jim Baber and Bob Hohman and Captain and Mrs. Joseph Davis.

Fifty cadets and Angels from a seven-state area attended the conclave.

Convocations are regarded by the faculty and the administration as an important unit in the educational program of the University. The program is built around the traditional Christmas and Easter Convocations.

Sigma K Formal Slated for Tonight

Sigma Kappa sorority will hold its annual Violet Formal in the ballroom of the Student Center from 9-12 tonight.

Candidates for the Sigma Kappa Typical Fraternity Man are John Gaffney, Lambda Chi Alpha; Phil Fisher, Pi Kappa Alpha; Kendall Brink, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Jerry Johnson, Tau Kappa Epsilon; Bill Campbell, Theta Chi and honorary candidate, Shelly Cohen, Alpha Epsilon Phi.

This is an all-Greek dance and one Greek card per couple will admit. Holders of Greek cards are allowed to vote and voting for the Typical Fraternity Man will take place from 9-10:45 p.m.

The dance is semi-formal and the Eddy Haddad Orchestra will provide the music.

The pledges of the sorority will entertain at the time that the Typical Fraternity Man is announced.

The social chairman in charge of all arrangements is Laima Runcis; on the decorating committee are Betty Howard, Sigrid Schakat and Kathy Metz; Betty Seibert is in charge of flowers.

A pre-party cocktail party will be held at the home of Kathy Metz.

Honorary Meeting; Bredemeyer Speaker

Dewey Bredemeyer, assistant to the director on external affairs of the Nebraska Blue Cross-Blue Shield, will speak to the Gamma Eta chapter of Delta Sigma Pi tonight.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Student Center.

WRA to Give Gifts to Needy

The Christmas spirit of giving is reflected in many ways—in material gifts to friends, in the giving of one's self by being more congenial and friendly during the season and in sharing one's talents with those less fortunate.

In the last reflection, the Women's Recreation Association has been very active. This year, as in the past, members will deliver Christmas food baskets to three needy families.

All WRA members are asked to donate canned goods and money contributions for the annual project. Students must bring their donations to the West Quonset by Dec. 20. Turkey, milk and eggs will be purchased with the contributions.

Sharon Irwin, chairman of the project, said that the families are selected by the Douglas County Welfare Administration and usually have from three to five children.

"All families which qualify for this relief program are definitely in need of all the aid they can get," she said. In most cases, the husbands are disabled, and the women are unable to work because they cannot afford to hire a baby sitter.

Those withdrawing from school after the sixth week will get no refund. During the fifth and sixth weeks, 25 per cent refund of fees will be given; 50 per cent during the third and fourth weeks, and 75 per cent during the first and second weeks.

'Toys for Tots' Dance Has Unusual Admission Price

A Toys for Tots Dance, sponsored by the Angel's Flight and Arnold Air Society, will be held tomorrow in the Student Center Ballroom from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight.

One new toy per couple will be the admission. This dance is held in conjunction with the annual Toys for Tots Drive.

Doug Everett, four-year-old son of past AAS commander Robert Everett, was on campus this week answering questions about the toy drive. Used toys may be placed in specially marked bars.

Sponsors for the dance are Major and Mrs. E. Ratti and Captain and Mrs. Joseph Davis.

The Roy Anderson Combo will play for the all-school function. Casual dress may be worn. Rels in the halls through December 15.

These toys and those collected at the dance will be distributed by the Marine Corps to needy children in the Omaha area for Christmas.

Honorary Taps To Be Made at Tea

Again this year the Dean of Student's is sponsoring a tea which will be held Dec. 18 from 3-5 p.m. in the ballroom of the Student Center.

Officers of all campus organizations and their sponsors have been invited to attend the tea.

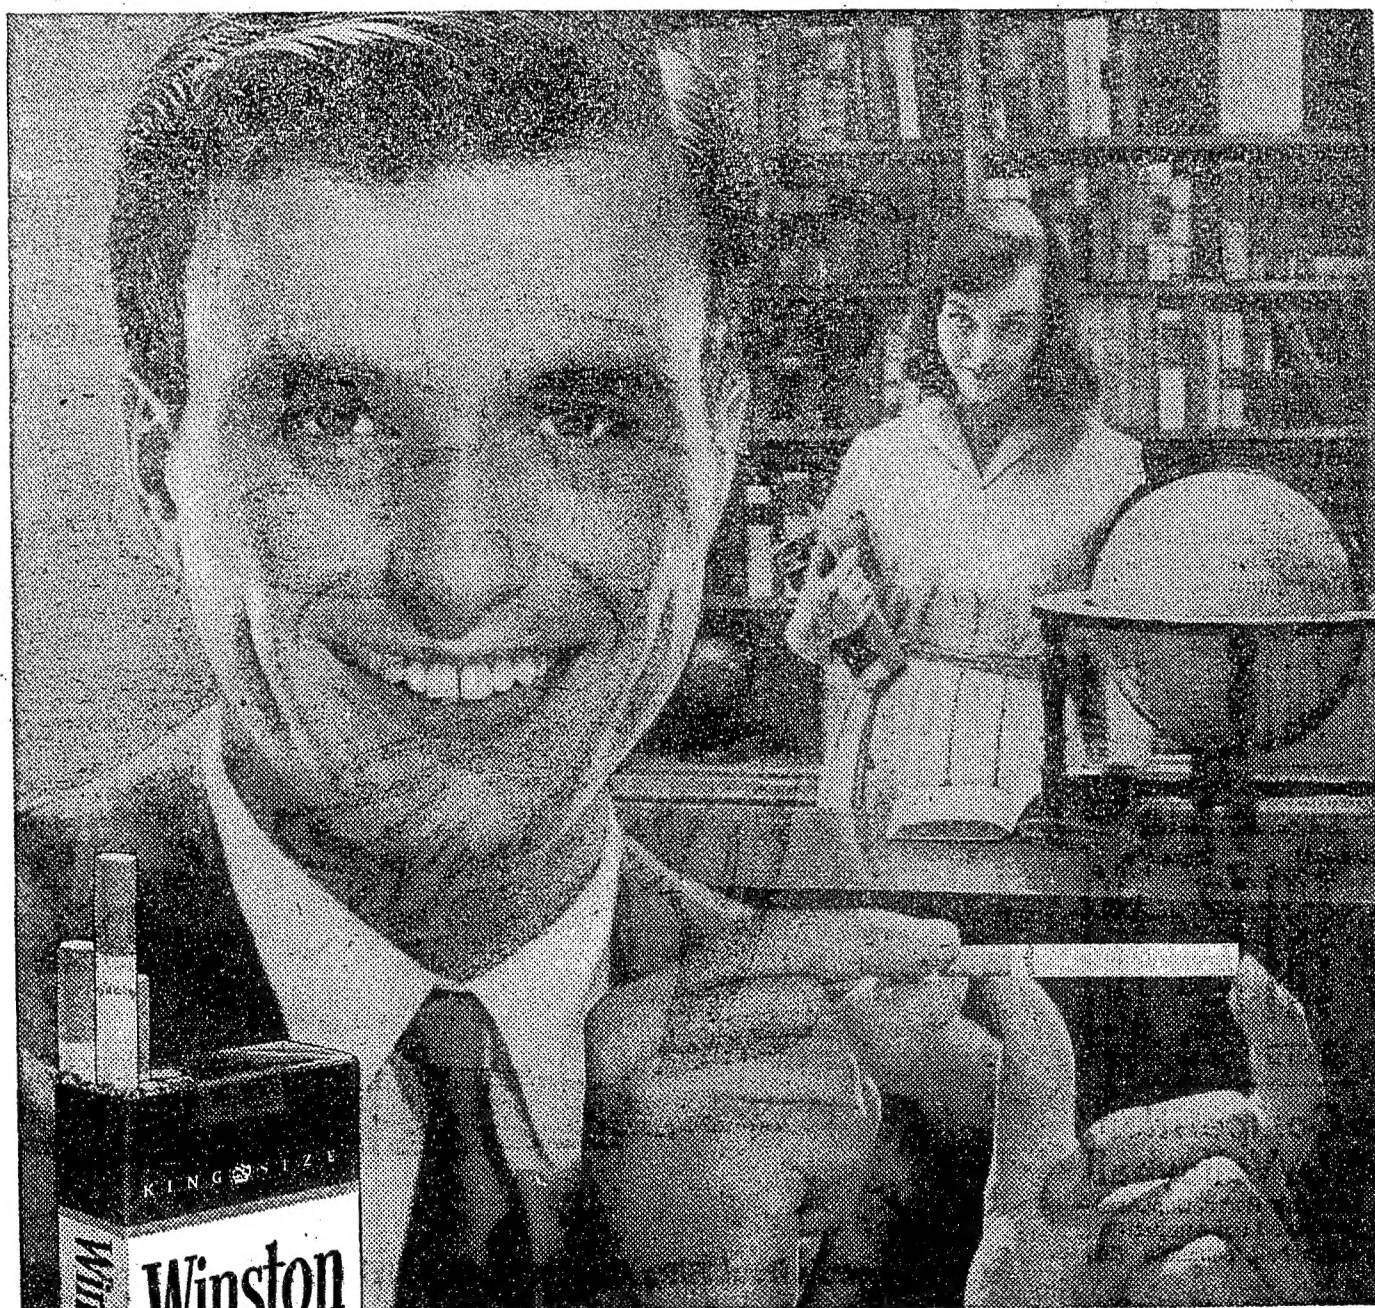

John Miller's Madrigal Singers will provide the entertainment for the afternoon.

High School, OU Advisors to Meet

Approximately 70 high school counselors and administrative advisors throughout this area will meet with Omaha University Freshmen faculty counselors and administrative advisors Dec. 11 in the Student Center at 6 p.m.

Cagers Seek Initial Victory Against Midland Tomorrow

Beaten in their first two outings by teams from the Nebraska College Conference, Omaha University's freshman dominated cagers will test Tri-State Conference champion Midland tomorrow night at 8:00 in the field-house.

The contest, second home match of the young season, will pit two green teams against each other.

Midland returns only two lettermen from last year's powerhouse that captured the Tri-State crown and overall won 17 while losing only five.

Gone are all-conference selections Dennis Groves, highest scorer in Midland annals, and rugged LeRoy Hulsebus, who controlled the boards for coach My Draemel's Warriors.

However, things aren't so dismal in Fremont as one might think. Rick Hillman, a 6-8 center from Essex, Iowa, and 6-3 forward Larry Oltmanns, a junior college All-American from Luther JC are back along with peppery Bob Frieze, a guard from Council Bluffs.

Jim Borsheim's Indians are down but not out after two losses to tough competition. Pleased with the opening performance against Peru, the head man still thinks the youthful-Indians will be strong by Christmas.

Freshman Bill King led Omaha scorers through two games with 25 against Peru and 14 against Wayne.

The Indians found they must have more scoring punch and more rebounding power if they are to battle teams which will be consistently taller and deeper.

Indian stock took a further drop this week when it was announced that sophomore letterman Gerry Kamphuis had dropped from the squad for personal reasons.

Kamphuis, who was in the center of several incidents during the Peru game, was replaced on the squad by freshman Vic Meyers.

Phys Ed Post Remains Vacant

Mara Davis will not return to Omaha University as women's physical education department head next semester, as had been originally planned.

Miss Davis, a former OU physical education instructor, has been teaching in a California junior high school, which has requested her to remain there.

President Milo Bail said OU is seeking either an instructor in women's physical education, or someone qualified to assume the position of department head. He said a new instructor will "definitely be hired by next semester."

OU Changes Two Wrestling Dates

Omaha University has moved up two wrestling matches from their previously scheduled dates.

The Indians' match that was scheduled with Graceland of Lamoni, Iowa, tonight was changed to last night. A January 13 match with the same team has been moved up to Friday, Jan. 12.

Correction

Louie Miloni will be one of the Omaha University football co-captains for the 1961 grid season, instead of Duane Salek who was mentioned as a co-captain for the '61 season in last week's GATEWAY.

Miloni will team with Paul Blazeovich as the captains of the Indian squad.

In Intramurals . . . Lams Take Top in Bowling; Basketball Continues to Roll

Bowling

The Lams regained the number one spot in intramural bowling Wednesday afternoon at the West Lanes.

Fiji dropped to second, two points behind the leaders with the Crew still in third place, three points down.

Garry Hannibal was the high man, posting a 242 game and a 618 series. His high game, however, had to be shared with Bill Katzman of the league leading Lams.

Lambda Chi (1) set a season high for team game, posting an 830. They also led the high team series, a 2236.

There will be no bowling next week because the West Lanes will be closed.

Basketball

Intramural basketball continues to roll along with two undefeated teams in leagues one and three and one undefeated team in league two.

Theta Chi and the Zeke Moe Joes top the number one league with three wins and no losses while the Lorpees sport the same record in league two.

The Lit' Pikes and the Rinky Dinks head the number three league with 2-0 records.

Cagers Lose Twice; King Leads Scoring

Noticeably lacking in size and firepower, the Omaha U. basketballers lost their second straight contest to Wayne State Tuesday night 60-45 on the Wildcat's court.

A seven minute scoring drouth after intermission proved costly for the Indians and they fell behind by 60-39 with 2:51 left to play when Coach Alan Svenningson cleared the Wayne bench.

On top by 40-26 at the half, Wayne was led by 6-6 Larry Coney with 16 points.

Omaha's inept scorers were led once again by freshman Bill King with 14 points and by Larry Villnow who had 10 points and his hands full all night fighting the taller Wildcats.

Omaha University's Indians, looking not at all like the 3-19 ball club of last year, dropped a thrilling 66-58 contest to Peru State in the OU opener last Saturday night.

Nip and tuck with the Bobcats throughout the fray, the eager Indians fell behind when the veteran Peru team went into a stall and drew fouls from the excited Omahans.

A crowd of 1,500 saw the Indians overcome a 31-25 halftime lead to lead 41-40 with seven minutes remaining.

Peru depth and experience proved damaging however, and mistakes and fouls cost the Indians the game.

Several wild fist fights livened the contest toward the end and the crowd was on its feet most of the last half.

Freshman Bill King led Omaha with 25 points and contributed a great floor game.

"Tareyton's Dual Filter in duas partes divisa est!"

says Sextus (Crazy Legs) Cato, Bacchus Cup winner.

"There are lots of filter cigarettes around," says Crazy Legs, "but e pluribus unum stands out—Dual Filter Tareyton. For the best taste of the best tobaccos, try Tareyton—one filter cigarette that really delivers de gustibus!"
